

Teen Van Affiliate

The Teen Van Affiliate is a group of individuals who partner with the Center for Adolescent Health to try to ease the unique lifestyle burdens of homeless and foster care kids.

The Adolescent Health Van (popularly referred to as the Teen Van) is a mobile health clinic of the Center for Adolescent Health at Packard Hospital at Stanford. The Teen Van services youth aged 10-25 in San Mateo, San Francisco and Santa Clara counties, primarily at school and community locations. Most of the Teen Van's patients are foster care and homeless youths. Consequently, the costs for care are frequently not reimbursed by insurance and the Teen Health Van is dependent upon donations to continue service to this fragile at-risk population.

The Association of Auxiliaries for Children support under-insured care at Packard Hospital in two ways: by direct fundraising for undercompensated care through our 7 Auxiliaries and by addressing specific departmental needs through our 5 Affiliates.
